are economical because they are especially built for each purpose. Naturally when a glove is made exactly right for certain work it will do that work better, longer and with more comfort to you.

If your need does not call for a special pattern you should have a Hansen general-purpose glove for all-around comfort and economy.

Has Made Good Record

As county superintendent of schools of Door county for three years, and supervising teacher for the same period prior to her appointment as county superintendent, Miss Katharine Conley has made a record for the betterment of conditions in the rural schools of Door county, that has gained for her the endorsement from members of the county board, and also representatives of the state educational department.

Any one serving in public office during the period of six years, and being active in the performance of their duty, cannot please everyone, and as a natural result Miss Conley has in the present campaign those who differ with her. Many of the issues raised however have no foundation, as pointed out elsewhere in other articles in The Advocate. The real issue, the standard of the rural schools, is not questioned.

County superintendent of schools is an important office for the welfare of the county. The rural schools are the foundation of the educational system for our future citizens. The schools are not playthings to experiment with and must be maintained at a high standard. Upon the shoulders of the county superintendent rests the responsibility of maintaining and building up the efficiency of the school system. During the past three years Miss Conley proved herself a most able and efficient official in this responsible position, and a strong endorsement from the women and men voters of the county at next Tuesday's election would show their appreciation of her work.

County Superintendent's Duties

As election day draws near stories are being circulated in regard to the duties of county superintendent of schools that are very misleading. Voters in some sections of the county are being led to believe that hiring of the county nurse, supervising teacher and even the county agent are under the jurisdiction of the county superintendent's office, which of course is not the case. And one making such statements are doing so through ignorance or stating deliberate falsehoods, as the county superintendent of schools office has no jurisdiction over creating or abolishing these offices.

Neither has the county superintendent authority to consolidate schools. The question is discussed at open meetings, voted upon and the people within the districts decide the question for themselves. Consolidation cannot be forced upon the people, neither can a county superintendent prevent districts from consolidating if the sentiment of a majority is for consolidation.

There are certain laws and regulations laid down by the state department of education which must be performed by the county superintendent, and whoever is elected must comply with these regulations.

Get Out and Vote

For the first time in the spring election women as well as men have an opportunity to vote for all the offices on the ticket, and they should all go to the polls and express their choice for the candidates who are running for the various offices. Poor roads or bad weather should not be an excuse. It is the duty of every American citizen to cast his ballot on election day.

The polls are open in the various voting precincts in the towns from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and in the city from 7 to 7. This gives every one an opportunity to visit the polling places and cast their ballot.

The election of town officers, state and county superintendent, Justice of the Supreme court and city officers, are not party political issues. Where there is opposition to the various offices, the voter must consider well the qualifications of the candidates and vote for the one whom the voter believes will best serve the public.

Overconfidence of a favorite candidate being elected without your vote, oftentimes results in their defeat, therefore no matter how large you expect your favorite candidates vote to be, go to the polls anyway and make it still larger.

Go to the polls next Tuesday and vote, both women and men.

The City Election

Voters, both women and men, should go to the polls next Tuesday and cast their ballots for their favorite candidates. There are contests in but two wards for aldermen, the first and third, and no contest for school commissioner.

The office over which there is a contest in which all the voters of the city will have the opportunity to express their preference is that of city clerk.

Present City Clerk John C. Acker is being opposed by Edw. Ackerman. Mr. Acker, the present official, is one whose official duties since being appointed to the office last August is above criticism. He has held the office thru that part of the term which requires the greatest amount of work, is now perfectly familiar with all the duties of the office, and has made good in every respect.

The wide experience gained in expert accounting while serving in France as Sergeant-Major of Motor Battalion of the 107th Ammunition Train, together with the college training he received after leaving high school, makes him exceptionally well qualified for the position which he so ably now fills, and is a candidate for at the election next Tuesday.

Training School Alumni

To the Alumni of the Door-Kewaunee Training School:

As graduates of this school you are interested in its welfare and in the service it renders to the counties. As students you have seen what it can do in preparing teachers for the country schools. You know the value it has been to you in your teaching. You know also the need of properly prepared teachers for the country schools.

Many of you are in a position to render the counties and the school service by encouraging young people to enroll in this school and thus prepare themselves for country teaching. You likely know young people who are planning to take up teaching in the near future. A word from you may be an encouragement in this direction. If it is their intention to teach in the country school, this institution is here to give them the best possible preparation.

Your service may be rendered in two ways. In the first place, if you have personal friends among seniors in the high school who are planning to teach in the country, you can advise them to enroll with us. You may also use your influence among students in the lower classes in the high school so they may look forward to entering this school, though you should advise them to complete their high school course first if it is at all possible to do so. In the second place, if you know of pupils in your own school or in other country schools that you think would make good teachers, encourage them to go to some high school or state graded school so that they may get the best possible preparation. Advise all children to get all the schooling they can but urge especially those who may return to the country communities as trained teachers of the country children.

Will not each one of you who is so situated that you can do so, try to get at least ONE student on the road to teaching the coming year? Send us the names of young people that you would like to see enroll with us next fall.

Teaching is a work that is worthy and the public is appreciating it more every year. There are plenty of positions awaiting good teachers, but young people must no longer expect to be able to enter the teaching profession and draw good salaries without making the necessary preparation and rendering the best kind of service.

No Let-Up in Quality

THE one factor which is guarded carefully and never allowed to vary is the quality of products manufactured by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The price may go up or down as the markets of the world may dictate, the quantity of products may vary as the demand for them varies, but the quality which has been established by specifications determined with scientific exactness, remains fixed.

Only an organization financially secure, physically well-equipped and directed by men mentally alert, could maintain the high standard of quality which has been the crowning achievement of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an organization of 25,000 experienced, capable men and women who are carrying out with enthusiasm the plans and policies formulated by 7 trained directors.

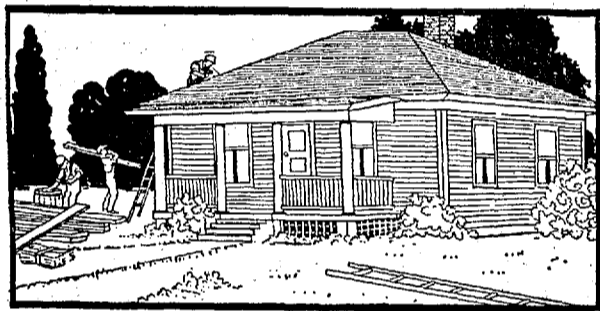

These plans and policies are designed to furnish maximum service to the public, regular profitable employment to the personnel and protection to the more than $200,000,000 which the stockholders have invested in the business.

In furnishing service to the public no single factor is so important as the insistence upon a uniform high quality of every gallon of product manufactured, an insistence which is felt in the most remote corner of the organization and of the 11 states served by the Company.

Take, as an example, Red Crown gasoline. This is but one of fifteen kinds of gasoline manufactured and sold by this organization. Each is made to meet certain uses for which gasoline is needed. Red Crown is made for use in the modern internal combustion engine and for this purpose it has no superior. Red Crown is the last word in a gasoline for power purposes. That this is generally recognized is attested by the fact that last year 725,000,000 gallons were sold and used by the people of the Middle West.

This tremendous volume is the inevitable result of uniformity, high quality and reasonable price. It is but one phase of the business but it serves to symbolize the earnest, honest endeavor which every individual connected with the organization is putting forth to enable the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to furnish the public a highly essential service.

MORE EVIDENCE!

IF YOU ONCE TRY

Armour's Dairy Feed

there is no doubt that you will continue to use it.

We had a dairyman come in to our place of business several weeks ago and we asked him to try Armour's Dairy Feed. This he did. The other day he was in and told us that the results he obtained were greater than he expected. He claims that he tried it on several of his cows and increased their milk flow ten pounds per head per day. These same cows were up to the trial fed on home mixed feeds. He is now satisfied and will sell his grain and buy ARMOUR'S DAIRY FEED. We can furnish the name of this man.

What this well-balanced ration did for this man it will certainly do for you. Just try it and be convinced that there is no other feed that can beat it. It is a feed that does not go begging for an agency to sell it. Come in and let us tell you more about it.

"The price of this feed is not too high;
The price of milk may be too low."
