OLDEST GRADS ARE HONORED SPEAKERS

Clara Fish Roberts and Stanley J. Kitt of Tucson, members of the first class to register at the University of Arizona, will be speakers at the assembly in observation of the fiftieth anniversary of that registration to be held on the campus October 4, Mel Goodman, alumni secretary, announced yesterday.

Other speakers at the coming assembly program will be Gov. Sidney P. Osborn, Dr. Alfred Atkinson, president of the university, and A. M. Crawford, Prescott, president of the board of regents.

The members of the first class to register will be honored at a full day's program, to include, in addition to the assembly, a luncheon given in their honor by President Atkinson, and attendance at the University of Arizona-New Mexico Aggies football game that night. There were 30 members of the original class, nine of whom have since died. Of the 26 living, all but four have been located and plan to attend the fiftieth anniversary observance.

Mrs. Roberts To Be Speaker Friday
At Ladies' Day

Citizen - 2/21/40
South west lore will continue to be the subject of luncheon talks at the YWCA Ladies day program this Friday at 1:15 o'clock. Mrs. Clara Fish Roberts will reminisce about early life in Tucson. This is the fourth in the winter series. Mr. Harry Drachman spoke last week, after Dr. Frank Lockwood and Bishop Gercke had begun the discussions of the south west. The public is invited to attend these affairs which are planned by the program committee of the YWCA as part of the adult education work of the organization and as an additional opportunity for meeting members and friends of the association.

Following the luncheon talk there will be a round table discussion for those who wish to discuss current literature. Miss Frances Gilmor will tell of her experiences in gathering material for books among the Navajo Indians. She is author of the novel "Windsinger" and co-author with Miss Wetherill of "Traders to the Navajos." Miss Gilmor will speak at 2:30 Friday in the YWCA reading room. Miss Irene Taylor plans the current books round table which meets each Friday at 2:30 o'clock and is open to the public. There is no charge.
